WEAK AGAIN.

SUGAR'S DECLINE HAS, HOWEVER LESS INFLUENCE.

In Other Respects the Day is a Repetition of the Previous One.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Today's stock market was almost a repetition of yesterday's except that the marked weakness of sugar had rather less effect on the general market than was the case yesterday. This stock began to drop from the opening and fell away by spurts until the recovery in the final hour. Apparently some support was forthcoming at each successive point downward or the selling pressure temporarily relaxed. These occasional rallies were not of large proportions and the stock succumbed readily to renewed raids upon it. The extreme decline was even four points.

Tobacco was a medium between strength and weakness. It was weak at one time during the morning but was very conspicuous in the afternoon rally, rising over four points.

The railway list was comparatively neglected all day. The market was one of specialties. There was a drive at the grangers in the late dealings but full recoveries were effected before the close.

Railway bonds were active and dealings well distributed. Prices are better held than stocks, though there was a yielding in the early afternoon on realizing on the speculative lines, with a subsequent rally. Total sales $3,092,000.

London Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says: The stock markets here were quiet and steady today. Spanish fours were flat. Americans were lifeless and dull.

CUBAN VISITORS.

Anxious to Return to the Isle as Soon as Possible.

Mr. Gonzalo Herrera and wife are registered at the Sanz, having arrived from New York yesterday morning. They leave today for Jalapa where they will remain an indifinite period. They propose to sail for Cuba as soon as the circumstances of war will permit.

Mr. Herrera is engaged in business in Havana and he and Mrs. Herrera are both native Cubans. This is the first visit that either has made to Mexico and they expressed themselves as well pleased with what little they had been able to of the city. Mrs. Herrera bears a striking resemblance to Miss Evangelina Cisneros, but inasmuch as the Cuban heroine, according to the press dispatches, was married yesterday in Philadelphia to Dr. Carbonel, it is manifestly impossible that she can now be in this city.

BELEM IMPROVEMENTS.

Retrenchments to be Made on the Telephone Installation.

Regidor Lazo, and all the other members of the board whose duty it is to visit the jails, went through Belem yesterday, making a most thorough examination of the premises. As regards the introduction of $3,200 worth of telephones and electric call bells it was decided that only twelve instead if twenty two installations should be made, which will reduce the expense to about $2,000. In the matter of the improvements in the electric lighting of Belem nothing was done yesterday.

Rifle-Bullets of the British Army.

At the recent German surgical congress in Berlin Prof. von Bruns (Tubingen) made a communication relative to the bullets used by the British army in recent warfare. These projectiles were originally coated with nickel, but as it was found that the enemy when wounded were not invariably disabled, the nickel coating was filsd away from the top of the bullet. In fact the nickel covering enabled the bullet to pass through the body making only a relatively small wound, but when this covering was removed from the top the lead was flattened out as soon as it struck the body, by which flattening the remainder of the covering was burst open in an explosion-like way, inflicting wounds of an astonishingly severe character. These bullets, which are termed Dum-Dum bullets, are now officially introduced into the British army. In experiments made with them on dead bodies Prof. von Bruns found that shots fired at distances of from 25 to 50 metres (from 80 to 160 yards) caused wounds of the skin as large as a hand, the muscles were lacerated, great pieces of bone were torn out, and the wound was filled with fragments of lead and nickel. Prof. von Bruns said that these bullets were in accordance with the letter, but not with the spirit of the convention of St. Petersburg, by which the use of explosive projectiles was prohibited. The convention would, therefore, have to be amended, and he would be glad if the discussion of the question by the Surgical Association would have the effect of inducing the German government to take the neccessary steps.—(Lancet.)

"CHUCHO EL ROTO."

The Career of a Famous Character Dramatized.--A Disappointed Public.

There were a number of disappointed theatre goers at the "Nacional" yesterday afternoon when it was announced that the performance of "Chucho el Roto" would be postponed until Sunday night. It was the opening night of this interesting drama and the public had looked forward to a treat, and when the announcement was made of the postponement the seats in the theatre had about all been taken.

"Chucho, el Roto" was a well known character in this city a number of years ago. He was a gendarme who, with other officers, searched high and low for a gang of thieves who had committed several bold and successful robberies. But the more they hunted the less they found. Chucho took the lead and was most active in following up clues which he was constantly finding and which led to nothing. After a long while it transpired that Chucho was himself the leader of the gang of thieves he had been set to catch. Other charges accumulated, all going to show that Chucho was an adept in all kinds of burglaries as well as other crimes and that he in addition possessed a remarkable facility for hiding his tracks.

Chucho was sent to the dungeon of San Juan de Ulua, not, however until after he had made a most brilliant defense and exhausted all legal remedies and subterfuges. But he escaped from the fortress and soon resumed his ingenious rascalities, and was again captured. Finally it was decided to have him shot, and all preparations were made for the execution. At the last moment Chucho was pardoned, and the shock being too much for a man with a faulty heart (as well as head and hand) action Chucho died of joy.

This is the outline of the drama in real life (very much resembling Bulwer's Paul Clifford), on which Francisco Neve, a resident of this city, has founded a play which promises to become a great favorite. The performance would have been held yesterday afternoon, anyway, had it not been that on account of the length of the drama it was feared that there would not be enough time to conclude it before the hour for the night performance of opera would arrive.

SOCIAL NOTE.

Mrs. A. Hoffmann Receives today in Compliment to a Guest.

Mrs. Adam Hoffmann will give today at her home in Santa Maria, Cuarta del Cipres, No. 7., a reception in honor of her friend, Miss. L. Lea.

The invitations sent out by Mrs. Hoffmann are in verse as follows:

On Friday at three
Tenth of Junio A. D.
To meet Miss. L. Lea
Grant me your company.
That assured I may be,
Your face there to see,
In rhyme kindly send me
Your R. S. V. P.

Most of the ladies replied in rhyme as requested, so that both the invitations and acceptances are quite unique.

Suit Compromised.

Mr. King-K and Sr. Serrano yesterday compromised their ranch and Louisiana bond deal. Serrano takes the hacienda back and King-K recovers his bonds, which he prizes very highly. In addition Serrano agrees to pay King-K back the $2,000 paid on the ranch, in cattle.

TWO SENSATIONS.

A SENATOR'S CHARGES AGAINST CALIFORNIA SHIPOWNERS.

Mr. Lodge Wants Information About Money Paid to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—At today's session of the senate Mr. Carter, of Montana, in connection with the rejection by the government of the steamship Centennial as a transport, made some ugly charges against ship-owners on the Pacific coast.

He said they have been endeavoring to hold up the government and compel it to pay inordinate prices to be used for transportation of troops to the Philippines. Mr. Perkins, of California, denied the statement of Mr. Carter and said that vessel-owners of San Francisco had placed their ships at the disposal of the government at a rate fully 50 per cent less than they usually received for them.

Mr. Lodge, of Mass., made some sensational disclosures concerning the disposition of the money appropriated by congress a short ago in payment of a claim of the book concern of the methodist episcopal church south. He introduced a resolution directing the claims committee to make an investigation of the matter and report to the senate what if any, action could be taken.

The "Omnibus claim bill," carrying something over $9,000,000 forty private pension bills and several measures from the general calendar were passed.

A house bill also was passed providing for the survey of the channel leading from Ship Island harbor, Miss., to the railway pier at Gulfport, Miss., and Biloxi, Miss., and for a survey of ship Island Pass; also a bill to permit the Kansas, Oklahoma and Gulf railway to construct a railway in Oklahoma.

Bills were passed as follows: Permitting Col. Anson Mills, 3rd United States cavalry to accept and exercises the office of commissioner between the United States and Mexico to amend an act establishing a court of private land claims, requiring claims to be filed before March 3rd, 1901; to authorize the construction of a railway bridge across Lake St. Francisco; to amend an act for the relief and civilization of the Chippewa Indians in Minnesota and granting the use of certain lands in St. Augustine, Fla. for a public park. The senate then adjourned.

STRIKING OPERATIVES.

Many Refuse to Return Though They Get Their Own Terms.

There was a riot at the San Manuel cotton factory in the district of Tlaxcala, on Tuesday, which might have easily resulted fatally to some of the workmen had it not been for the promptness and efficiency of the local constabulary.

The difficult originated on the 19th of last month over the observance of a saintsday, which the laborers claimed and which the owners of the factory refused to allow. It does not appear that the men wanted to be paid for the holiday which they proposed to keep and did keep, but simply wanted to be allowed to quit work for the day and have a good time even if they lost their pay for the day. On the refusal of the owners of the factory to let them off about three hundred of the men, nearly the entire force, went on a strike, notwithstanding that the manager threatened to dock them in their previously earned wages if they took the holiday.

At this stage the governor of Tlaxcalala, Colonel Cahuantzi, intervened and ordered that the men be paid for the days that they had already worked and that nothing be struck from their wages by way of punishment for the saintsday that they did not work. Thus encouraged about two thirds of the men returned to work, but about one hundred of them remained out and have attempted to prevent the others from their labors. On last Tuesday they went so far as to challenge the men who were in the shops at work, and dared them to come out to battle, even assaulting them with rocks and other missiles. The workmen were nothing loth to go out and drive the trespassers off, but the proprietors, with great presence of mind, closed all avenues of ingress and egress and thus pept the combatants apart, while they telephoned to the city for aid. The authorities sent out a force of gendarmerie who promptly dispersed the rioters.

AIDA.

Verdi's Masterpiece Given at the National Theatre.

The performance of Aida last night at the National theatre proved among other things that the public of Mexico has been hungering and thirsting after Italian opera. The boxes were not occupied, naturally, and that for two reasons, first, because all of Mexico's well-to-do families are in the country and could hardly be expected to put themselves to the inconvenience of coming into town to hear a single operatic performance, and, in the second place, because the troupe was a modest local affair and was not heralded as a fashionable attraction.

But, with the exception of the boxes, the theatre was full, the parquet in particular being well patronized.

No grand expectations had been raised by the troupe and for that reason the audience were agreably surprised by the excellent rendering of Verdi's most finished opera. Of course the word "excellent" is used in a relative sense. Perhaps the truest description to give of the performance is to say that it was thoroughly acceptable.

Miss Goyzueta, in the title role, showed that she was made for something far higher than zarzuela. She rendered the pathetic music which Verdi wrote for the part with feeling and discretion. She was all that could reasonably be expected in that pathetic air: Patria mia, mai piu ti rivedro, as also in the duo with Radames that follows in the exquisite scene of the living grave, with which the opera closes, and particularly in the tender air "Terra, addio!"

Jose Vigil, as Radames, showed that he possesses a well cultivated voice, even though it be somewhat deficient in volume.

Miss Beatriz Franco showed off her rich, passionate contralto in the role of Amneris. She won loud applause in the crucial passage in which she overhears the sentence on Radames, and in her entreaties to the priests, and in the closing scene, when, veiled in black, she advances amidst the fanatical priests and kneels on the grave of her lover and of her successful, but ill-fated rival, her acting was full of delicacy and appropriateness.

Mr. Alfredo Solares as the father of Aida acted and sang his part with the savage dignity required for its proper interpretation.

Mr. Jose Ochoa as the leader of the priests and Mr. Juan Sanchez as the Egyptian king acquitted themselves well.

There was a comic incident in the grand trumpet march. The long trumpets were only make-believes and when the loud blare came from behind the scenes, the trumpeters on the stage forgot to put the bogus instruments to their lips. This provoked hilarity on the part of the public, but in other respects the audience showed itself thoroughly appreciative.

If the troupe has been successful with so arduous a production as Aida, it would seem that it ought to be able to give such operas as Favorita, Lucia, Cavalleria, Pagliacci, etc., extremely well.

ANOTHER VERSION.

Detectives, Disguished as Gas Men, Successfully Outwit the Spy.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, gave out for publication this afternoon a translation of the letter taken from Captain Ramon Carranza, naval attache to the late Spanish legation.

The letter proves conclusively that Carranza has been engaged in establishing a spy system in this country, and that Downing, the Washington mechanic who hanged himself after arrest, was, as charged, a traitor to his country and a spy in Spanish employ. The letter, in its reference to Camara, shows the jealousy in the Spanish navy, and is particularly interesting in reflecting Spain's hopelessness in waging the war.

The secret service bureau had from two to ten agents in Polo's house from the day he established headquarters in Canada. They entered the ex-minister's apartments in the guise of book agents, plumbers, paper hangers, steamfitters, piano tuners, grocers' boys and messengers. Two secured the Carranza letter. The captain had just finished writing, sealing and stamping it, when two persons supposed to represent the Montreal Gas company called on him to examine the burner in his room.

"Everybody's complaining about the light," explained one.

The captain noticed the light had been bad. One of the "gasmen" lighted a burner, examined the flame attentively and then said, in a tone indicating satisfied curiosity:

"This is it, captain; come here and I'll show you."

The captain left his desk and the letter lying on it, and also examined the flame.

"Now, you see," said the disguised detective, with much gravity, "if you want the gas low, you turn this spigot this way, and if you want it high, you turn it that way—see?"

The captain looked slightly astonished and said:

"So I should think. You turn it this way for high and that way for low. I always do so."

"That's right; that's what you want to do and you get good gas," and the expert smiled blandly, called to his companion, who had secured the letter during the conversation and both withdrew. The one with the letter left at once for the United States. His companion wired the department as a "blind" that he was going to Windsor.

The state department will at once demand the expulsion of Carranza from Canada. The presumption is he will leave the country in haste, since his utility as the chief of American bureau of Spanish spies is destroyed.

The letter captured is in Spanish. Some of the pages are doubly written, one set of lines crossing the other at right angles. Carranza, is said to be a nephew of the man he addressed, Don Jose Gomez Imay, ex-minister of marine.

War Cries.

"What was that dreadful noise in the street last night?"

"Don't know; there must have been about 19,000 Spanish battleships sunk after 1 o'clock."

MERITED TRIBUTE

COMMODORE SCHLEY PRAISES HOBSON AND CREW.

Surprised That Any of the Devoted Crew Should Have Survived the Hell of Fire.

ON BOARD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH BOAT DAUNTLESS OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, SUNDAY, June 5.—4 p. m. via Kingston, June Monday 6.—Commodore Schley paid a beautiful tribute to the valor of Lieut. Hobson and the gallant crew of the collier Merrimac as he sat on the after deck of the flagship Brooklyn lying five miles off Santiago on Sunday afternoon talking with a correspondent of the Associated Press. Pointing to the grewsome walls of Morro where Lieutenant Hobson and his brave men were said to be incarcerated the commodore spoke as follows: "History does not record an act of finer heroism than that of the gallant men who are prisoners over there. I watched the Merrimac as she made her way to the entrance of the harbor and my heart sank as I saw the perfect hell of fire that fell upon these devoted men. I did not think it was possible one of them could have gone through it alive. They went into the jaws of death. It was Balaklava over again without the means of defense which the Light Brigade had. Hobson led a forlorn hope without the power to cut his way out. But fortune once more favored the brave and I hope he will have the recognition and promotion he deserves. His name will live as long as the heroes of the world are remembered."

AMUSING THE SOLDIERS.

Officers of the 26th Infantry Contract a Circus Co. for the Men.

Yesterday afternoon the officers of the 26th infantry battalion, which has its barracks on San Ildefonso street, engaged a Mexican circus company to perform at the barracks for the amusement of the privates and in reward for their good conduct. The expense was divided up among the officers. The amusement was thoroughly appreciated by the men.

It was in the barracks of the 26th infantry battalion that Laura Veraza the other day killed one officer and wounded two others.

MONTEREY AND GULF.

Date Set for the Hearing of Lawyer Macedo's Appeal.

The 16th of the present month has been set by the judge of the first circuit tribunal for the hearing of the appeal of Lic. Don Pablo Macedo praying for a change venue from the first district court to another competent tribunal in the matter of the litigation growing out of the bankruptcy of the Monterey and Mexican Gulf railway company.

It will be remembered that Mr. Macedo made objection to the bill of expenses presented by the receiver Mr. J. A. Robertson, but that the judge ruled Mr. Macedo's objections out, on the ground that they had not been presented within the proper time. This ruling was the cause of Mr. Macedo's request for a change of venue.
